

Financial planning is continuous endeavor but completed on a periodic basis. Complete financial reviews can be completed on an annual basis but more likely every three to five years is sufficient. Investment monitoring that is part of financial planning should be reviewed no less than annually. Tracking your financial plan helps to identify the need for adjustments or possible troubleshooting.